

I would prefer a la carte. For instance to boycott MTV and for them to really get the message I would not have them included as part of the current "bundle" of channels. Comcast says to remove the channel from my remote although this would still imply that I choose to have them as a part of my "bundle" in which I did not. Removing them via remote is not adequate in sending the proper message to MTV that I do not want my MTV. Thanks!